fake schemes of any sort. Just the same old American method we have pursued for years of giving our patrons the finest and best Clothing obtainable at fair and equitable prices is what is keeping us busy in even this so-called dull season.

If you are going away and need a new Suit, an Outing Coat and Trousers, a thin Coat and Vest, or odd Coat, a pair or two of Duck Trousers, or anything whatever in our line, let us supply it. You'll find variety enough here to give you a satisfactory choice, and we guarantee the quality and price of the garments. There are some specially good Outing Suits at $7.50 and $8. Other people would ask you $12 and $15 for poorer ones. See them and judge for yourself.

The Championship Record.

GIANTS WON EASILY.

Timely Hitting Aided in Securing a Victory for the Visitors.

Meekin was strong in yesterday's game. He had perfect control of the ball, and his change of pace was so well hidden that the heavy hitters of the home team could not find him. Maul also was in fine form, and he pitched with good effect, except in the eighth inning, when he was touched up for three runs, Abbey and Selbach had much to do an Accey and School and the difficult stops and they did it well, both covering a great deal of ground. J. Ward and Shiebeck each made difficult stops and throws, while Maui fleided his position in fine style. Van Haltren's error was excusable, as he made a straight run for Maul's fly.

The visitors bad their pennant-winning anie on the diamond, and under the general-ship of the veteran Ward thep earned the vic-tory. Little Murphy caught a liner off F. Ward's bat which landed him on his back and he turned clean over in aerobatic fashion. Maul reached first on Van Haltren's muff Mani reached first on van Hanten's mun in the third inning, and after F. Ward went to first on balls and Joyce followed en Doyle's error the former scored on Abbey's out from J. Ward to Doyle. In the fourth Seibach hit sately and went to third on Cartwright's dou-ble to left field. Both scored on Shiebeck's short fly to center, which Van Haltren failed to reach short fly to center, which Van Haltren failed to reach.

The ninth looked dangerous for awhile. Maul went to first on balls, and F. Ward was hit by a pitched ball. After Joyce and Abbey were retired McGuire also went to base on balls. Selbach had already made three hits and the rooters rooted with much vigor, but the best that the batter could do was to put a fly to Eddie Burke and the game was lost to the Giants.

Faller waited patiently for four balls in the first inning, and the rejuvenated short stop walked down to first. Burke's double put him on third, and Davis' single sent the two men across the plate. Murphy hit for two bases in the second, went to third on a passed ball, and scored by the aid of a very rank decision.

J. Ward singled in the fourth, and on Mur-

J. Ward singled in the fourth, and on Murphy's out at first went to second, scoring on Farrell's safe hit to center.

In the eighth Burke was given first on balls. Davis went out. Then Doyle, after having two strikes, hit one down the right field. The ball bounded over the fence and he trotted home four lengths behind Burke. J. Ward singled and reached third on Van Haltren's safe hit, scoring on Murphy's out to Selbach, the latter making a poor throw home. The score:

FLAGRANT SAVED A WATERLOO

After Fourteen Consecutive Favorites in Three Days Had Been Knocked Over, the Last Race Was Won by the First Choice-Jockey Foster's Riding Below Par.

After fourteen consecutive favorites had been bowled over in three days at the Alexander Island course, the spell was broken in the last race yesterday, when flagrant galloped home winner, and the talent breathed an audible sigh of relief. it was time that a stop should be put to the feast of the bookmakers.

The attendance was up to the average, and the betting fairly active, with the pickers looking for long shots. The pencillers were rather leery of the outsiders, and marked in a very conservative manner. Despite their shrewdness two of the winners were at 20 and 15 to 1, but the books quit ahead on both. The nearest approach to a hog killing was in the last event when Eph was backed down from a fancy price to 3 to 1, closing a point higher. Eph ran away going to the post, and only stopped at the head of the chute. There he propped himself and came very near throwing his boy. The horse got off last, but finished second after all, while Flagrant, the favorite, won in a gallop.

BOATS CROWDED ON EVERY TRIP

Music by the Amateur Orchestra-Professor Joyce's Juvenile Athletes Gave an Exhibition-Scientific Sparring Match-Baseball Between "Fats" and "Leans."

The twenty-first annual excursion of Carroll

Institute to Marshail Hall yesterday was a big occess in every way. The steamers Macalester and River Queen went down crowded on every trip, bearing merry parties out for the day's pleasure and in honor of the occasion. The Macalester took probably the largest rowd during the day on her evening trip, Those who did not care to stop at Marshall will be enacted to-day when Capt, Heary W. Hall was given the enjoyment of a ride to Linaburg, who was charged by Frank Will-Indian Head. An excellent programme for fams, who did the shooting, with having inthe entertainment of the excursionists was stigated the crime, will have a hearing before carried out under the direction of Paul H. the police court. The murder, as already Cromelien. The exercises took place in front | stated in The Times, occurred near Georgeof the mansion shortly after nightfall. They onsisted of an excellent instrumental musi cal concert, given by the Carroll Institute orchestra under the directorship of Prof. orderstra under the directorship of Prof. S. Minster. Many popular airs and medleys from operas were played in a manner that won merited applause for the performers.

Prof. M. A. Joyce, with his junenile class, gave an excellent athletic exhibition which comprised physical drill, exercise on the German horse, acrobatic and contortion acts.

The young people taking part in this featare of the entertainment were: Ernest H. Keppler, James Barrett, Claude O. Donnoghue, Daniel Cox, George A. Spurrier, Manuel Keane, George J. McCloskey, Archie L. Don-noghue, Eddie Voight, and Maddox Horne. A scientific sparring match of two rounds was given by Prof. Joyce and J. A. Eckert. This was followed by an amusing boxing match between John and Jess, two small colored boys late of the Francis Wilson troupe. The youngsters also delighted the audience with jig dancing.

Those interested in bowling had a chance the contract between their contracts.

PROF. JOYCE'S ATHLETES.

Those interested in bowling had a chance to see a fine contest between a team from the Y. M. C. C. and a team from Carroll Institute, which resulted in favor of the former, and the prize, a silk banner, was awarded the victors. The score was as follows: Y. M. C. C. team—Lonsdale, 180; R. Lehman, 140; M. Guinney, 130; B. Lehman, 179; J. J. Troppe, 168; total, 797. C. I. team—H. B. Merritt, 156; G. Armstrong, 127; W. F. Downey, 94; J. Shea, 155; J. Armstrong, 110; total, 642.

The field sports intended for the afternoon

The field sports intended for the afternoon amusement did not take place, but instead a baseball game was placed between the "Fats" and the "Leans" of Carroll Institute. The game was broken up, however, in the fifth inning by a thunder storm. The score at the interruption of the "Fats."

FOR LADIES AND GENTLEMEN. CAPT. LINABURG'S STORY,

He Denies the Story of Williams that He Told the Latter to Take His Gun and Shoot Twigg.

Another chapter in the Twigg murder case will be enacted to-day when Capt, Heary W. town on Tuesday.

Linaburg was arrested at Brunswick, Md., on Wednesday afternoon by two Frederick county officers, and they notified Inspector Hollinberger, of this city, who sent Detective George Boyd to bring the prisoner back to this city. The detective reached Washington very early yesterday morning and at once took his man to the Sixth procinct station, where he was locked in an upper room.

To a Trues' representative who interviewed Capt. Linaburg the latter said: "There is not the slightest truth in the story of Williams that I told him to shoot Twigg. I did not know that Twigg took the whip, if indeed he did take it. I was drunk when we left Georgetown, and know nothing about the shooting on Wednesday afternoon by two Frederick did take it. I was drunk when we left Georgetown, and know nothing about the shooting except what I have been told. My wife has said to me that after I had laid down on the floor of the cabin of the boat Williams went to the boat on which Twing was standing and had some words with him. After a moment or so Williams ran back down the ennal bank and down into the cabin, where he picked up a shotgun belonging to me that was standing behind the stove and started to go out with it, saving that he was going to go out with it, saying that he was going to "My wife grappled with Williams, but he was too strong for her, and securing the gun he hurried out of the cabin and again went towards Twigg. I heard the report of the firing and the noise roused me a little. When Williams came back to the boat I said: 'Did you shoot Mr. Twigg?' He replied: 'Yes, Give me my money.' I asked him how much I owed him and he said $\pi 1.70. I told my wife to say him as I wanted.

burg conducted the boat to Harper's Ferry, where it was fied up to await developments. Mrs. Linaburg left the boat at Hurper's Ferry yesterday morning and proceeded to her home at Orieans. During the day Capt, Lin-aburg wrote to his wife asking her to request his brother Panforth to take charge of the boat or to employ some one to do so,

SOLD LIQUOR TO MINORS. Henry Rosenburg Speedily Convicted and

Fined in the Police Court. Henry Rosenburg was yesterday fined $50 and costs, amounting to $76.25 in all, by Judge Taylor for selling liquor to minors at his saloon on Eleventh street southeast Special District Attorney James L. Pugh represented the government and J. B. O'Neal resented the government and J. B. O'Neal appeared for Rozenburg.

John Harman, Thomas McDonald, Charles Lang, Herbert Warren, Henry Nally, Harry Osbora, Frederick Cookman, Charles Nally, and Charles Selby, all boys from sixteen to twenty years old, testified that Harman on July 18 bought two bottles of beer from Rosenburg. The latter denied the charge, but Judge Taylor said the evidence was conclusive and a conviction followed promptly, Judge Taylor gave Rosenburg until Saturday to pay the fine and costs.

Bosenburg was convicted several months ago of keeping a disorderly house on P street northwest, and when he applied for a license for a salion there the neighbors objected and his application was rejected. He then moved over into Southeast Washington, where his application was rejected. application was not opposed, and the license was granted to him.
